

We learned about how to create an real image recognition with python and its libraries and how to transform it into real application to use, how to deploy it into a server to other people can use, how this classification model algorithm structure performance actually run in the real world and how the process of generation a flow of validate images using ml.