Today we learned about the experience of deep learning and how it can be understood by other people that are not from the IT area, i learned about the principal authors of the deep learning books and other concepts that is used in the area, learned about the concept of data, how use it to create an study about something.