This week, I learned about various aspects of collaborative filtering, including how to create dataloaders and interpret embeddings and biases. I also gained knowledge on bootstrapping a collaborative filtering model from scratch, and utilizing deep learning for better performance.